Opening Verses

- Part I: “An oath sworn to the sea, a bloodline marked by storm, yet one son roared against the tide, and the lightning crowned his defiance.”
- Part II: “Exiled into white silence, he starved, he howled, he bled, yet in the snow’s last breath, the goddess knelt and flowers bloomed.”
- Part III: “Crowned in ash, chains melted to gold, he walked with the goddess through ruin to the hall of his shame and the cursed son became legend.”

Artist's Statement

The saga is a tale of defiance, suffering, and transcendence.

The goddess is the beauty born of pain, revealed only through trial.

It is a hymn for the fractured a reminder that:

“Fractured does not mean broken, it means becoming.”
